Party In The Back

Synopsis

Celebrated skateboarder, Tino Razo, has documented and shredded abandoned backyard swimming pools throughout Southern California. The resulting body of work often elevates itself beyond a bunch of thrill-seekers navigating the suburban landscape. This book juxtaposes renegade sessions by world class skateboarders with dramatic architectural photographs of a lost American dream. Introduction by Julien Stranger

Customer Reviews

"By and large, pool sessions are a short-lived bust, so Tino began taking a camera along for posterity. Before he knew it a project began to emerge, and now there's a book of his awesome photos." --Monster Children, Photo Annual 2016 "Physical and existential risk is on view here. The photographs are raw and compelling. Ace skaters like Steve Alba, Chet Childress, and Kevin Spanky Long dance with coping. There's dogs, dilapidation, industrious young men with buckets standing knee-deep in small polio ponds at the bottom of kidney shaped pools, and a lot of bounce and sparkle at play in Party in the Back." --Outerknown, Jamie Brisick - January 2017 "The motif of suburban decay thus comes to light through this exceptional series, whose title, A Party in the Back, also refers to a book, now available through Anthology Editions." --Unrated, Valeria Giampietro - February 2017

Tino Razo started skateboarding at age 5 in with his brothers in Bennington, VT. He moved to New York as a teenager, and lived there for sixteen years. He has participated in group shows that have taken him to Japan and Europe. He currently lives in Los Angeles, where he skates every day and hangs out with his dog Chunk.

Super nice presentation/design, not much content.

Amazing story and photos. Buy it, you need it!

this book is sensational dont second guess purchasing it, just do it!!

Such a beautiful book. Best thing to happen to photography since the discovery of light.

So stoked this book is finally out!

So so dope. Hell yeah Tino!
